Members' interests

The Society caters for diverse interests within the scope of transport history. Some interests are represented by active Special Interest Groups (SIGs) which normally communicate with their members by email or postal newsletters. There is no additional charge for SIG membership and all the groups welcome new members. More information is available on the Society's website including contact information. Tick to have the appropriate Special Interest Group Coordinator contact you:

- ☐ Early Railways
- ☐ Modern Transport
- ☐ Waterways History Research (including docks and shipping
- ☐ Railway Chronology
- ☐ Modern Transport
- ☐ Railway History Research
- ☐ Road Transport

One of the important functions of the Society is to help create informal networks between members outside the Special Interest Groups listed above. Members can list their particular interests which will be shown with their permission in the next issue of the Society's Bulletin.
